CURIOUS WAY OF DEFEATING

[From the Chicago Times of yesterday.] [From the Chicago Times of yesterday.]
The present is a crisis in the democratic party which has no precedent in its history, as it is a crisis in the progress of the country which is also without precedent. Never before has the democratic party encountered events so seriously affecting its future vitality as now. Not that it beholds itself diminished in the magnitude of its numbers—for it is numerically stronger than it has ever been before—but that, having been beaten on a great national issue, as to which it believed itself to be wholly right and the opposition wholly wrong. tional issue, as to which it believed itself to be wholly right and the opposition wholly wrong, and still so believes, it must neverth-less abandon that issue—for the decision of it is final—and either sit down in helpless and decaying inactivity, or strike boldly out upon a new line, selected with peculiar reference, not to things as we would have them, but to things as they actually are, and in pursuing which line it shall cease to be a hold back or "conservative" party, and become, what it was in its palmy days, a progressive and an aggressive party. These are the alternatives.

It will not sit down in helpless and decaying inactivity.

What, then, shall the new line be? In the first place, must we not cut loose from the administration of Andrew Johnson, and leave that abprit concern to float on the sea of public contempt into which it some time since entering the state of the season of t econtempt into which it some time since en-ered, and from which no power can rescue it? lic contempt into which it some time since entered, and from which no power can rescueit? Is not the late defeat attributable more largely to this administration than to all other causes combined? What is there in its composition to command popular confidence? Who, belonging to it, is entitled, by reason of his antecedents or of his statesmanship, to the confidence or the respect of the Democratic party? Certainly is not Andrew Johnson, nor William H. Seward, nor Edwin M. Stanton. True, this administration had a right policy, and the Democratic party, in overlooking the chief men comprising it, and thinking only of the rightfulness of the policy, displayed a patriotism whose purity was never excelled; but the policy having falled—and having falled, too, through the feebleness and folly and offenses against public propriety of the administration—why should not the Democratic party abandon the dead body, longer adherence to which is death also to itself?

What next? Can the Democratic party succeed until the negro question shall be gotten which is death also to itself?

What next? Can the Democratic party succeed until the negro question shall be gotten out of the way? It can not. What next? Is not negro suffrage inevitable, and is not the quickest way to get the negro question out of the way, to at once concede the suffrage, making issue only on the degree to which it shall be conceded? We know that many Democrats have not reached this advanced view of the case, and that such still feel greatly inclined to revolt at the proposition of negrosuffrage in any degree; but let us tell them that it is always wise to accept the inevitable when the inevitable comes. Negro suffrage, we say, is inevitable, sad whether it shall be qualified or universal, depends upon the promptness with which the Democratic party shall move with reference to it. The South will speedily yield qualified negro suffrage upon the motion of the Democratic party; because, if for no other reason, she will soon see, if she does not already see, that if she does not upon the motion of the Democratic party; because, if for no other reason, she will soon see, if she does not already see, that if she does not yield it, she will ultimately be compelled to accept universal negro suffrage, compelled to accept universal negro suffrage, end to the seed to accept universal negro suffrage, or suffrage dependent upon the intelligence of the man, irrespective of color, as is now the rule in Massachusetts—the negro question will be disposed of, and the occupation of the Northern Republican radical party will be gone forever. Not offe inch of ground will it have to stand upon; and the country can once more turn to those material questions of public policy the right disposition of which is so essential to the public prosperity. It will be upon these questions that the Democrastic party will system will be preserved.

If the South be wise, it will not wait, on this suffrage question, even for the motion of the Democratic party. If it be wise it will lose no time in putting in motion the necessary machinery by which it will at the same time save itself from humiliation, preserve its own save itself from humiliation, preserve its own self respect, rid the country of the most vexa-tious question that ever distracted any coun-try, kill the worst political party that ever ex-isted on the globe, and put the Union in the way of speedy restoration. This machinery consists, of course, in conventions to revise the

We have on the highest authority a frightful picture of the prevailing destitution, especially in Cutlack; it would be difficult to exaggerate the magnitude and extent of the calamity. All the accounts I have seen have underrated it. It is difficult to obtain reliable statistics asto the mortality from the famine and cholera occasioned by it, but all that I have seen and heard has convinced me that it has been on a scale of frightful magnitude. There are still four long dark months before us, though for a month past there has seemed some slight abatement in the districts of Balasore, Mednapore, Sarumes and Tranhoct.

Over 40,000 paupers were being daily relieved in the latter part of July, besides 7,000 who were able to make some return for food by working.

A week later we find 34,000 relieved in Balasore and Mednapore alone, whose poor adde 17,000 mere the the and lite. It is believed in

A week later we find 34,000 relieved in Balasore and Mednapore alone, whose poor adds 17,000 more to the sad list. It is believed in Cutlack that the majority of the people must die before relief can reach them. While 1,000 persons a day were perishing at the single station of Baissore, a vessel, the Tubal Cain, which was bringing them food, was driven off by a storm and compelled to throw overboard 1,500 bags of rice; but this is not all, and possibly not the worst. The new crop of rice will soon be obtained, but it is likely to add a new source of danger, for, lacking other food, the poor people will devour it in its immature and unwholesome state, and a dreadful pestilence will thus be produced. Until the land can be covered with a net work of railroads and canals, there will be no escape from the frequent repetition of such calamities, and that day is far distant.

Another account says: When the famine frequent repetition of such calamities, and that day is far distant.

Another account says: When the famine was at its hight the starving poor, we are told, crowded into the streets of Calcutta, and it is estimated that no fewer than from 20,000 to 25,000 starving people were wandering about the capital at Mullick Chatt, where the Bombay merchants raised a fund and distributed food. There was at one time 2,000 famishing applicants. They were described as placed in order upon an open space, waiting for this distribution. On one side nearly 4,000 Hindoos, each with a leaf platter before him, were scattered on the wet ground, hastily partaking of the scant allowance they received. On the other side were thousands of famishing Musselman, ranged in like manner, and watching with silent and greedy eagerness the meal of their Hindoo brethren, and counting with bitter longings the minutest till their return should come, under the shelter of the Ghat. Besides the women and children, out-led the gates, were hundreds and hundreds who had lost their chance till the next distribution, but over all a horrible dead silence—no chattering or conversation—hardly a sound, excepting when at intervals some wretch threw up his arms with an ejaculation to heaven, wrung from him by the unappeaswretch threw up his arms with an ejaculation to heaven, wrung from him by the unappeasible pangs of hunger; more than this, the officials wrote home descriptions of meeting dead bodies in every morning's ride, bodies lying in the road, with the village dogs eating them at lessure.

The Calcutta Journal states that in Balazore, having a population of 12,000, the deaths amounted to 300 a day, and the Government is demanding of its officials a report against the libel. The collector of the district replied that on the 8th of August he had 245 deaths in the city, and on the 9th, 151; and for the week ending the 9th, 126 a day. The bodies sometimes remain unburied for three days. The province of Orizza suffered the most severely, one paper declaring that 400,000 souls have perished in maritime Orizza, alone. Indeed, a telegram from India announces that half the population of Orizza have perished in the famine—that is, fully two millitons and a half of people.

not disappointed. The indications are that the Northern radical party has rather lost than gained. It had already reached that position in which it had everything to fear, and little to hope. It could not expect to increase its power by new accessions, but had cause to to hope. It could not expect to increase its power by new atcessions, but had cause to apprehend the losses and gliding away of its strength. Radicalism may be said to have attained its culminating point, and henceforth its course will be downward. The effect of these elections upon the fate of the constitutional amendment is the interesting point of inquiry. The fidelity of Maryland and Delaware to conservatism, has, as far as we can judge, scaled the fate of that amendment. It required but ten States to defeat it, and we have fourteen arrayed against it. There would seem to be but one mode of securing it—puting territories into States.

We have often heard of the honey ant Texas, but the account seeming so romanti we have heretofore been hardly able to cred the but as we now have a specimen before Texas, but the account seeming so romantie, we have heretofore been hardly able to credit it, but as we now have a specimen before us, furnished by our friend Leo Smith, of this city, we can no longer have any doubts on the subject. These ants are a medium size between the large and small red ants, and are of a reddish and brown color. Appended to the rear of each one is a transparent sack or globe filled with pure, clear honey, of a most delicious flavor. These sacks vary in size on different ants—ranging between the size of a buckshot and a navy pistol ball. On this sack, at short intervals, are attached thin layers about the length and width of half a grain of rice, and of a dark color, evidently to strengthen it and keep it in shape. These interesting animals, when they crawl, draw their delicious load after them, and if the sack is empty, they set themselves to work to replenish it again. Whether they deposit this honey in their great general resorvoir among the rocks, to draw from it as occasion may require, or hold and use it as individual property, we are not informed. Here is a curiosity that we believe has heretofore escaped the eyes and pens of our celebrated naturalists.

A wealthy and respectable old gentleman of Jasper county has just been tried and acquitted at Lafayette, on a charge of murder. The facts of the case are briefly as follows: Mr. ARKINSON, the wealthy and respectable old ntleman alluded to, had a daughter, who RIDGE. PARKINSON learning of his daughter's shame, and having numerous precedents before his eyes, became impulsively insane Acting under this insane impulse, which he could not resist, if we are to believe the could not resist, if we are to believe the learned counsel employed in his defence, he sought out young GUTHRIDGE and shot him dead in his tracks. Mr. P. was tried by a fury of his peers at Lafayette, and a verdict of not guilty returned—it being held that a man wealthy and respectable, acting under an intended to him, and a "bureau of military justices wheth received and recorded his false testimony. And in time, the tide turned, and the witness was arrested and tied to a cart's tail and whipped almost to death from one end of London to the other—and history says "murder by false testimony is the most aggravated species of murders." broke out in irrepressible applause." As for poor Parkinson, it came near doing for him. He shook hands convulsively with "the jury voice trembled with emotion," and his "nervous energy" upon which he had subsisted for a couple of weeks, broke down. Unable to keep his feet, without a supply of nervous energy, he "sank exhausted into the arms of his friends." Altogether, Mr. Parkinson's conduct was all that could have been expected of him, and was sufficiently melodramatic to satisfy the most fastidious taste, carefully educated in the perusal of yellow backed literavoice trembled with emotion," and his "nerv-

Does any one seriously believe in this twaddle about impulsive insanity? I sar your ereally deceived by the shallow pretense? We think not. Every man on the jury—every man who listened to the evidence—whows that Parkinson was no more insane than any other man who gives way to a viclent access of anger. He was simply acquitted because public sentiment justifies the killing of the seduced; provided that the seduced and her near relative are wealthier and more respectable than the seducer. This is the plain truth about the matter, and there is no use in disguising it. But here is manifest one of those inexplicable contradictions which puzzle the student in his analysis of that subtle essence known as public sentiment. The same public sentiment. The same public sentiment. The same public sentiment which justifies Parkwould not have sustained a jury who should have sentenced the seducer to a year's imprisonment for seduction.

I let the law inflict death. This principle of allowing an individual to take the law in his own hands is a dangerous one, and is liable to be much abused, if it once becomes popular. Public sentiment justifies the taking of a fellow creature's life, without color of law, for a crime which it does not consider worthy of a few months' impresonment. The Dear Dead Woman Up Stair BY OWEN MEREDITH.

Midnight past! Not a sound of hught
Through the silent house but the wind
his prayers,
I sat by the dying fire and thought
Of the dear dead woman up stairs. Nobody with me my watch to keep But the friend of my bosom, the man And grief had sent him fast to sleep In the chamber up above.

Nobody else in the country place
All round that knew of my loss besi
But the good young priest with the face,
Who confessed her when ahe died. On her cold, dead bosom my portrait lies, Which next to her heart she used to wear Haunting it o'er with her tender eyes, When my own face was not there.

And I said: "The thing is precious to me; They will bury her soon in the church ; clay:
It lies on her heart, and lost must be,
If I do not take it away." troversy. The President's record is clear on this point, and only such calumniators and

Twas the hand of a man that was O'er the heart of the dead-from the other side;
And at once the sweat broke over my brow,

Opposite me, by the taper's light,
The friend of my bosom, the man I loved,
Stood over the corpse, and all as white,
And neither of us moved. "What do you here, my friend?" The man Looked first at me, and then at the dead. "There is a portrait here," he began. "There is. It is mine," I said.

Said the friend of my bosom: "Yours, doubt, The portrait was, till a month ago, When this suffering angel took that out, And placed mine there, I know." "This woman, she loved me well," said I.
"A month ago," said my friend to me;
"And in your throat," I groaned, "you lie!
He answered: "Let us see."

We found the portrait there in its place; We opened it by the taper's shine; The gems were all unchange; the face Was-neither his nor mine.

The state of the public finances engages much attention, and the forthcoming annual report from the Treasury, upon the meeting of Congress, is looked for with unusual interest it is reported and believed that Mr. Wells, the Revenue Commissioner, who has investigated.

A citizen of the United States adjourning in this city labors under more disadvantages than in most any other country. In the first place, he is a "blanted Yankee," and he hears Americans called by all the opprobrious epithest the English language is capable of producing. The Canadians consider the whole American people responsible for the late Fenian raid, and charge us now with trying to indicts the Fenians to cross the border again. If s man looks at the Fenian prisoners confined here with compassion, and is so unguarded as to express himself in favor of the Canadian Government dealing with the prisoners in a lenient manner, he is at once charged with being in league with the Fenians and called a spy, and detectives are set to watch him. Your correspondent has been honored with the company of two of these representatives of the F. F. C.'s since his arrival in this city.

Again, being Americans, we are supposed to know all about the Fenian movements, and when questioned, if we do not reply in a manner that pleases them, the whole American people are abused in unmeasured terms. The press, especially, are very severe in their criticisms. The American press, with the exception of one or two dalles, are denounced as Fenian organs.

Penian organs.

At the court room door you are met by a side whiskered individual, who inquires if you are a juryman or witness. If you reply in the affirmative, you are at once admitted. If in the negative, you are told that you can not go in.

If in the negative, you are told that you can not go in.

Chief Justice Wilson, who presides ever the Fenian trials now taking place in this city, is about sixty years of age, five feet eleven inches in hight, stoutly built, full, red face, dark eyes, gray hair and beard, with a countenance in which genial good humor predominates. He is a finan of moderate legal stillity, and at times apt to go beyond the law. In delivering a verdict, whether the prisoner be found guilty or not guilty, he invariably reads him a lecture on morals. In the case of Rev. Mr. Lumsden, after the foreman of the jury had returned a verdict of not guilty, his Lordship proceeded to deliver a lecture on the morals of the prisoner. Now all this may be very well in private, but in public, where a man is bowed down with grief, and it is visible to any one that he feels his own degradation, I submit that it is out of place, especially so when the private character of the party delivering the lecture is not above reproach.

Hon. Kenneth McKenzie, Queen's counsel, employed by the United States Government to defend the Fenian prisoners who are citizens of the United States, is about forty-eight years of age, of medium hight, with dark hair and whiskers, mild blue eyes and full face. He was formerly Judge of the Queen's Bench in Nova Scotia, and is classed, among the best legal taient in the provinces. During the trial of John Slavus, he, being hard of hearing, was allowed to stand near the witness box, that he might hear the evidence. When the jury returned a verdict of guilty, he was brought close to the judge to receive the death sentence. He clasped his hands together, leaned forward, and listened very attentively to the judge until he concluded; then, raising his eyes, he said, in a voice choked with emotion:

"My lord, I did not come to Canada to injure any one; I am innocent—God knows I am innocent!" Judge Wilson was evidently moved. He told the prisoner that his good conduct in the past should serve him now more and that he eyes, he said, in a voice choked with emotion:

"My lord, I did not come to Canada to injure any one; I am innocent." Judge Wilson was evidently moved. He told the prisoner that his good conduct in the past should serve him now, and that he should st once prepare a copy of the evidence to be forwarded to the Attorney General and Lord Monck, the Governor General of the Provinces, and that he would recommend that his sentence be commuted to imprisonment.

Hon. Kenneth McKenzie, Queen's counsel, and counsel for American citizens that have no means to defend themselves, charged with having invaded the Provinces, will move for a new trial for Father McMahon and John Slavin. I do not think that they will grant either of them a new trial, although, in McMahon's case, evidence has been received here from McMahon's deceased brother's attorney which shows that McMahon was written to by said attorney to come to Montreal and settle up the estate of his brother.

The verdict in Lumsden's case has given rise to a great deal of talk and ill feeling. The majority of all classes think that the evidence brought against him was stronger than that which was brought against either Lynch or McMahon. This having given rise to discussion it has turned into a matter of party feeling which will result in hard for anys, if nothing more serious. No matter what efforts are made to stife public opinion here, it now and thea breaks forth, and much indignation is expressed by all that Father McMahon, a Eoman Catholic, should be found guilty on very flimsy and unreliable evidence, while Rev. Mr. Lumsden, a Protestant minister, on stronger testimony, is found not guilty. It is very easy to account for this. In Lumsden's case the jury were all Protestants, and nearly all Orangemen. In McMahon's case there was not one Roman Catholic on the jury. On the panel of forty-eight there were but seven, and one of them was challenged by the Crown counsel. Still they boast of fair and impartial trials! The men composing the jury in these trials are as poor

The circumstances connected with the late murder of August Study raveal a cool bloodedness of crime, so to speak, totally unparalleled in the history of criminal statistics. There was no excuse for this heartless deed. How could there be? The victim was a young man in the prime of manly vigor; one who sought, by honest labor, to provide for himself and family by the sweat of his brow, and had honestly carried out his intentions up to the hour of his death.

Through the kindness of Deputy Sheriff Close, to whom all praise is due in ferreting out the statement of facts, we are indebted to lay before our readers a full and comprehensive statement of the murderous affair. And here it is but proper to state that to that offlay before our readers a full and comprehensive statement of the murderous affair. And here it is but proper to state that to that officer belongs the full share of credit for his promptness, shrewdness and general conduct in the affair. To him above all others are the public indebted, for the speedy arrest of the criminals, and the manner of securing them is creditable to his shrewdness and courage. Let us follow him. After hearing of the dreadful crime, he started on his mission with a full knewledge of the main facts, but of the details he knew nothing. Arriving at the house of the brother of the murdered man, he there gained an insight into the nature of the horrible murder, and based his operations, which may be summed up as follows. The statement below may be implicitly relied upon, it having been gained from the lips of pon, it having been gained from the lips of About two months ago, according to statement, Mrs. Shulz first broached the idea of getting her husband out of the way to the negroes, Walker and Piney. Walker, who is a muscular man, and a cool, calculating villain, groes, Walker and Piney. Walker, who is a muscular man, and a cool, calculating villain, favored the project, and having an eye to the possession of Mrs. Shulz, soon selected the means—that of killing Shulz some time when he was passing from his own house to that of his brother, and between which that of Walker is situated. The first intimacy between Mrs. Shulz and Walker occurred about two months ago. The parties lived about two months apart, in the bush, off the Pontiac road. Mrs. Shulz was in the habit of going to Walker's for water, and while on this errand became acquainted. From this sprung up a criminal intimacy which has resulted in the commission of g horrid crime, the main facts of which are already known. It was projected about five weeks ago that Mr. Shulz should be murdered, and Mrs. Shulz left her home on a visit to her friends in Bedford, with the understanding that the bloody deed should be accomplished before she returned. The agrow Walker was to perpetrate the murder, but when the opportunity offered his heart failed him. Shulz was drawn into his trap, but been a criminal intimacy of several month duration, and that it was for the purpose or marrying each other and going into the gro-cery business in Canada that the horrible deed THE PRISONERS.
Walker, Piney, and the shadowy female with able nor avariee to gain in its accomplish nent, and nothing but the deepest dyed viluiny could have suggested its perpetration the parties will be brought up to-day before ustice Feeht, for preliminary examination. How the Tariff Works.

Dear Sir:—I take great pleasure in testifying to the extraordinary remedial qualities of the Hoof-land's German Bitters, procured at your estab-lishment. ishment.

A member of the family has been for many years a perfect martyr to Dyspepsia, Palpitation of the lieart, and other distressing offsprings of a torpid liver, until persuaded to try the above celebrated remedy, which in a few weeks resulted in making her (to use her own words) "a new woman."

Tou are at liberty to make any use of this you see fit, or refer similar sufferers to.

Yours, truly,

A. McMARIN.

MORRISON'S OPERA HALL. The first con cert of the Grover Opera Troupe last night, was not so much of a success as they deserve, was not so much of a success as they deserve, though an audience very fair in numbers, and very, appreciative, was in attendance. The concert selections were rendered with spirit and effect, the trie from "Tell," Frederici's aris from "Bobert," Welhi's performance—including his fantasis from. "Faust," and his left hand fantasis from "Faust," and his left hand fantasis variations on "Lucia"—were the gems of the concert. Miss Lang sang the trite but trying aris from "Ernsni," with much effect, though the piece is beyond her power. Although the garden scene in "Faust" was detached, and unsupported by an orchestra, it was rendered with good dramatic effect. FROM A LADY. WEST MILTON, Saratoga, New York, July 6, 1861. Dr. Hoererren-Sir: I have long delayed writing to you my sincere thanks for the good you have done my daughter. I can truly say that nothing but the kind hand of Providence and your Bitters have saved her from an early grave. For three years I have been doctoring her with syrups and all kinds of bitters that have been re-commended to me for her, besides having two first rate physicians; but all seemed to do her no good, commended to me for her, besides having two first tend during the day. Applications received at the College office, (second floor), Blackford's Block. Students can enter at any time.

HYCIENIC WINE.

Admits in its composition only Tonic, Aromatic and Febrifuge substances. It replaces, with a great superiority, all other Bitters, which have for a base nothing but alcohol or inferior whishies. It is richer than any other Bitters in Aromatic and Enlaunce Frinciples, And its taste is exquisite. Its soothing effects on the Nervous Fluids is most astenishing, for, while it gindly exhibiterates by reminating the functions of the Digestive Organs, and dissipated Languor, by gently refreshing and stimulating the Brain, giving a healthy tone to the whole organism, it leaves behind none of the baleful influences that follow alcoholic stimulants. We warrant that upon trial. Hyzienie Wine will be bund a Most Delicions Beverage, Possessing wonderful virtues in all cases of Dyspepsia and Debility, and moreover is uner called APPETIZER.

To Ladies, especially, it will prove a most effectual relief for those ailments to which the sex is LAMBERT & KAMPING, 31 and 33 Broadway, New York. Are the most perfect purgative we are able to produce, and, as we think, has ever yet been made by analydedy. Theirefloots have abundantly shown to the community how much they excel the other medicines in use. They are safe and pleasant to take, but powerful to curs. Their penetrating properties stimulate the vital activities of the body, remove the obstructions of its organs, purify the blood, and expel disease. They purge out the foul humors which breed and grow distemper, stimulate sluggish or disordered organs into their natural action, and impart tones and strength to the whole system. Mot only do they formidable and dangerous diseases. While they produce powerful effects, they are at the same time, in diminished does, the safest and best physic that can be employed for children. Being sugar coated, they are pleasant to take; and being purely vegetable, are entirely harmless. Cures have been made that would surpase belief, were they not substantiated by men of such examples of the curs. THIS is an article for washing without rubbing, except in very dirty places, which will require a very slight rub, and unlike other proparations offered for a like purpose, will not rot the niches, but will leave them much whiter than ordinary methods, without the usual wear and tear likewover grease spots as if by magic, and soften the cases entirely remove it.

The cases entirely remove it. itself an universal favorite wherever it has been used. Among the advantages claimed are the following, viz:

It saves all the expense of soap usually used on cotton and all linen goods.

It saves most of the labor of rubbing, and wear and tear.

Also, for cleaning windows it is unsurpassed, with one quarter of the time and labor usually required it imparts a beautiful gloss and lustre, much superior to any other mode. No water remains appearing to maisten the powder.

It is not a surpression of the control of the cost of the co

WINDOWS CLEANED

Woodsum's INSTANTANEOUS WINDOW POLISH

THE attention of the public is invited to this new and valuable preparation for cleaning all kinds of glass, whether in windows or in the form of ware. Its action upon that material is astonishing, and seems more like the workings of magic than reality. It does away with soap suds or hot water, thus avoiding the slops upon the floor or adjoining paint, and the disagreeable sensation of the water running down on the arms, under the sleeves, and wetting them to the shoulders. It leaves no lint upon the glass, and gives it a more transparent and clearer appearance than can be got with ten times the amount of labor and time in washing. Please experiment with the samples in different manners, until you are thoroughly convinced that the article is, in every particular, fully equal to our recommendation of it. Try it on your looking glass, on your windows, on your silver, brass, britania or tinware: in fact, on anything you wish to clean or polish. Ruly some grease of your window, and see how quickly larly clear it leaves the glass. Frice 25 cents.
